

JULY 2011

JOURNEY

It's Go Time!

After years of preparing to serve overseas the time has arrived! Tom has his first assignment with AIM (Technical Orientation) this September. In faith, we are selling our belongings and moving to North Carolina for Tom's Technical Orientation. We are supposed to have full support by August 1st. Please consider partnering with us. If you have been waiting until the last minute, the time is now!

Recently...

- Tom's official last day at Moody was June 24th. It's been a great place to work these last 4 years and we'll miss the Moody family.
- We have set up a new blog/website with a great video showing what we will be doing in Kenya. Check it out and share it with friends: <http://tabrown.aimsites.org/>

What's ahead?

- Support Raising this summer in Spokane, California, Kansas, and Florida
- September-December 2011 - Technical Orientation
- February 2, 2012 - Depart for Nairobi, Kenya!

Photo above was taken at Moody's farewell party for Tom where they shared the noteworthy statistics below. During his time at Moody, Tom:

- Flew 1328 hours as an instructor
- Performed/instructed 1452 landings
- Flew with 29 students of which
 - 21 have graduated and
 - 5 are with a mission
- Flew in 18 different airplanes
- Passed 1500 total flight hours

Thank you to those who partnered with us and made the above happen!
