

Last certification at Moody Aviation

OCTOBER & NOVEMBER 2025

DANA FROST

Serving with Proclaim Aviation Ministries

serving in missionary aviation.

An entire five-and-a-half years of training have drawn to a close!

On November 5th I passed my checkride for my instructor instrument rating—essentially now allowing me to teach students to fly in the clouds. I can't express how grateful I am to God for His never-failing grace and to my family and friends for their abundant support and encouragement throughout the sometimes rather intense but at the same time incredibly rewarding training at Moody Aviation!

My first assignment

My first assignment with Proclaim is building a team of ministry partners! My position with them as a pilot/mechanic is a support-funded position. This is dual purpose: it allows Proclaim to focus their resources on their ministry and allows me structured time to build the financial support team I'll need to join a long-term overseas organization.

The commitment with Proclaim is two years long, after which I hope to have the technical experience and support team necessary to seamlessly transition to overseas ministry!

Let's connect.

I hope to connect with many of you! Please reach out if you are interested; I would love to share with you more about my ministry with Proclaim and how you can be a part!

My Tentative Schedule:

Spokane area: Now until December 20th

The Midwest (primarily Iowa) January and the first two weeks of February 2026.

So...what now?

I just joined an organization called Proclaim Aviation Ministries. Proclaim exists to equip aviators with the skills and resources they need to fulfill their call to serve God and to send these laborers into the harvest. For me, this looks like helping out with a variety of flight and maintenance operations at their headquarters in Worthington, MN. This real-world operational, instructional, and ministry experience will be invaluable when it comes to preparing for the types of flights and challenges I will face as a missionary pilot overseas.

The weather might be too bad for flying,
but not for hiking!

learn more about Proclaim at
their website:

proclaimaviation.org

or on their social media platforms on Facebook and Instagram.

Biblical Support-Raising

Is it biblical to raise support? Is fundraising just begging for money? Didn't Paul work to support himself in ministry?

If you've ever asked these questions, you're not alone. One of the first things Proclaim has new members do is a training on support raising—both the practical steps and the biblical foundation behind it. Before the training, I hadn't realized just how much Scripture speaks to living and ministering on support!

God's provision for those in ministry is woven throughout the Bible. I can't cover it all here, but if you want to explore further, look at: God's provision for the Levites (Num. 18), Jesus' own support-based ministry (Luke 8:1-3), Paul's request for the Roman church's support (Rom. 15:24), Paul's teaching on a minister's right to material support (1 Cor. 9), his instruction on cheerful giving (2 Cor. 8-9), and John's description of financial supporters as fellow workers for the truth (3 John 8).

Philippians offers one of the clearest pictures of the relationship between supporters and those in ministry. From the start, Paul prays for his supporters and calls them partners in the gospel (1:5). In 4:10-20, he holds a delicate tension between genuine thankfulness for their care and yet being fully reliant on God as his ultimate provider. He recognizes the true nature of the Philippians' gifts as offerings to the Lord and remains content, confident that God will meet all his needs.

I hope to grow in that same confidence in God's provision, while seeking those God is prompting to be my partners in ministry, just as the Philippians were for Paul.

If you would like to partner with me in ministry, whether in prayer or financially, I would love to talk more with you! Please reach out!

In Christ, Dana Frost

connect.

641.840.5818

danarfrost@gmail.com

3614 E Farwell Rd

Mead, WA 99021

partner.

proclaimaviation.org

praying.

Praise God for His incredible sustaining grace throughout the entire program (and then some) at Moody Aviation!

Pray that I will trust in God to provide and courage to step forward in faith during this support raising phase.